The sons and daughters of Saints Benedict and Scholastica are a group of men and women who have dedicated their lives to following the Benedictine Rule. This rule is a set of guidelines for Christian living that was written by Saint Benedict in the 6th century. It emphasizes the importance of prayer, work, study, and community.

The Benedictine Rule has been followed by countless people over the centuries, and it has helped them to live more meaningful and fulfilling lives. In this book, we will explore the lives of some of these sons and daughters of Benedict and Scholastica. We will learn from their experiences and insights, and we will see how their wisdom can help us to live better lives.

The Life of Saint Benedict

Saint Benedict was born in Nursia, Italy, in 480 AD. He was the son of a wealthy Roman family, but he renounced his inheritance and became a monk. He lived for several years in a cave, where he devoted himself to prayer and meditation.

In 529 AD, Benedict founded the monastery of Monte Cassino. This monastery became a center of learning and spirituality, and it played a major role in the spread of Christianity throughout Europe.

Benedict wrote the Benedictine Rule as a guide for his monks. The rule emphasizes the importance of obedience, humility, and community. It also stresses the importance of work and study.

Benedict died in 547 AD, but his legacy continues to live on. The Benedictine Rule is still followed by thousands of monks and nuns around the world. It is a testament to the wisdom and holiness of Benedict, and it can help us to live more meaningful and fulfilling lives.

The Life of Saint Scholastica

Saint Scholastica was the twin sister of Saint Benedict. She was born in Nursia, Italy, in 480 AD. She also renounced her inheritance and became a nun.

Scholastica founded the monastery of Plombariola, which was located near Monte Cassino. She lived a life of prayer and contemplation, and she was known for her kindness and compassion.

Scholastica died in 543 AD. She is remembered as a model of Christian virtue, and her feast day is celebrated on February 10th.
