Fun Facts About Espionage

Do you know that the first spies were used by the ancient Egyptians? Or that the CIA was founded in 1947? These are just a few of the fun facts you'll learn in the Spy Valentine For Kids book. Here are a few more:

- The word "spy" comes from the Latin word "specere," which means "to look."
- The first female spy was Mata Hari, a Dutch exotic dancer who worked for the Germans during World War I.
- The most famous spy in history is probably James Bond, the fictional character created by Ian Fleming.
- Real-life spies don't usually carry guns or wear disguises. They often use everyday objects, like pens and cameras, to gather information.
- Espionage is a serious crime, but it can also be a lot of fun. Just ask the kids who read the Spy Valentine For Kids book!
